In 1903 the story goes that Thomas Lee, a few miles down the road in Westport, New York, nailed a few pine boards together, testing the chair by trial and error with family members until it was comfortable enough. The chair was born of necessity, as is true of so many successful objects. The necessity in this case was comfort. It's the only chair in history to become an American icon.

In 1918 architect Gerrit Thomas Rietveld of the "deStijl" arts movement, "scientifically" designed a chair using formulas and calculations that kept one both comfortable and alert. Tradition and Art meet with the deStijl Adirondack chair, where the sturdy comfort and rustic elegance of these original Adirondack chairs has been preserved by artisans at Old Adirondack.

COLOR

If you need a little color in your life:

You can spice it up with our resilient outdoor stains on some of our most popular items, including our entire Adirondack Line and our Around the Tree Bench (39L, 39LB in white or sage green).

Our new cushioned furniture (see Porch & Patio) brings even more choices to add color, texture and comfort.

Or, you can do it yourself with our staining kits (available in clear, light and dark stains)!

Of course, you can always go “au naturel” and let the cedar naturally turn to a lovely silvery gray.

By buying products with the FSC label you are supporting the growth of responsible forest management worldwide.

“...You cannot imagine the sense of a white cedar. It is like no other tree anywhere. Its smell is fragrant, and its leaves add snap and aroma to our campfire, where we share stories, old yarns and just reminisce of days gone by.”
